

GLUTEN STATEMENT

The US Food and Drug Administration (FDA) have published a final ruling on the “gluten-free” labeling of foods (72 FR 2795). In the final ruling, foods that contain any spices of wheat, rye, barley or a crossbred hybrid of these grains (collectively referred to as “prohibited grains”) are excluded. This exclusion is confirmed by testing for gluten at a level of less than 20 parts per million (ppm) gluten – for the voluntary use in the labeling of foods.

None of the Long Binh Branch of Olam Vietnam Ltd. manufacturing facilities uses any of the “prohibited grains” in the preparation or manufacture of their products. These “prohibited grains” are not used on any of the production lines, nor are they knowingly present in the production facilities.
